The PREVENTION BEER MUG

Men in Czech Republic consume the most beer in all of Europe. Unfortunately, the beer changes many of them into aggressors upon arriving home. In order to stop this domestic alco-violence we redesigned the trademark beer mugs of our client Bernard brewery to preventatively warn its beer drinkers to not lose control over their drinking.

See how easy feeding the hungry can be?

Fred SA is a charity dedicated to feeding disadvantaged people throughout South Africa. Despite the rapidly growing numbers of homeless and hungry people on the streets, more fortunate citizens tend to drive by and ignore them.

We were briefed to help Fred SA target consumers more efficiently in order to increase contributions.

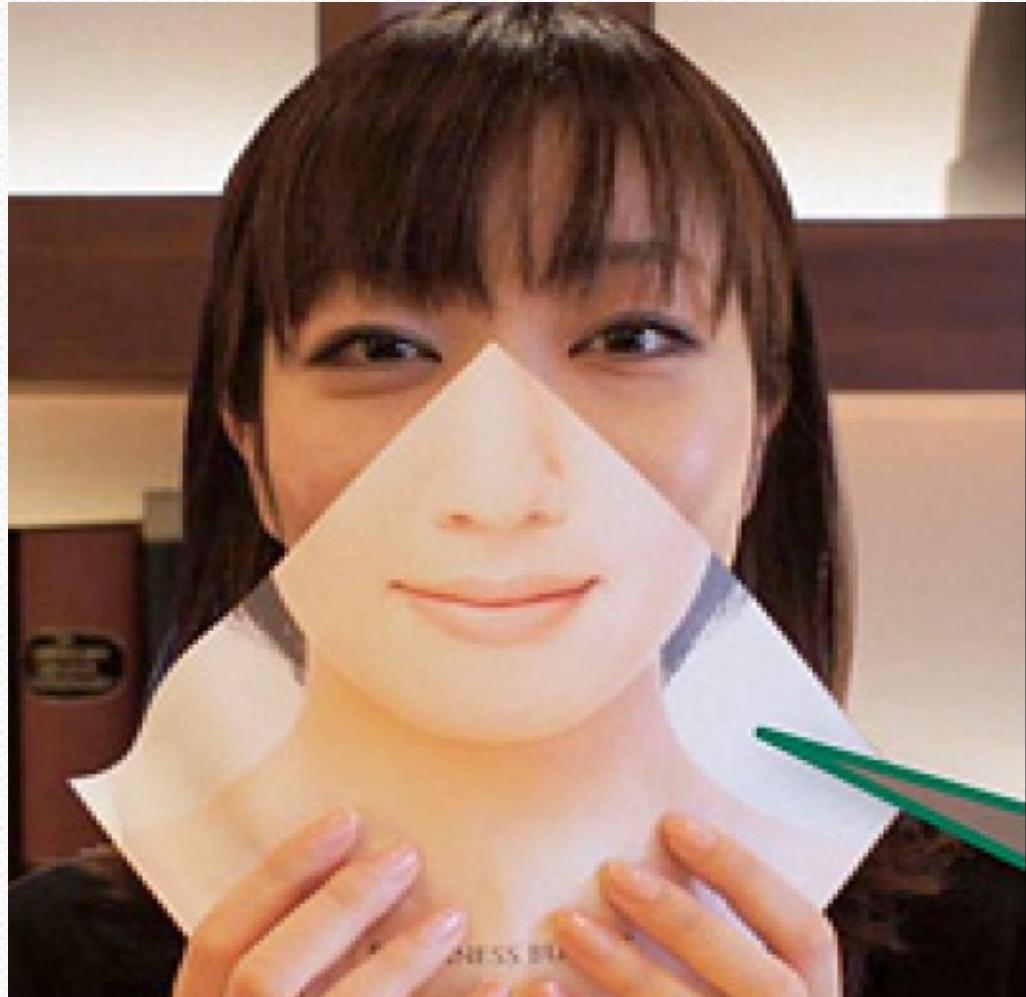

We placed photos of hungry, looking street children at the bottom of supermarket shopping trolleys (using the Fred SA website and the line "See how easy feeding the hungry can be"). Any food placed into the trolley appeared to be given to the child.

Collection bins were also placed at the till points and bins for food contributions were positioned at exits. Our message was seen by hundreds of shoppers every day for the cost of a few dollars resulting in a marked increase in donations and a significant boost in website traffic.

Abstract

Visually impaired people report numerous difficulties with accessing printed text using existing technology, including problems with alignment, focus, accuracy, mobility and efficiency. We present a finger worn device that assists the visually impaired with effectively and efficiently reading paper-printed text. We introduce a novel, local-sequential manner for scanning text which enables reading single lines, blocks of text or skimming the text for important sections while providing real-time auditory and tactile feedback. The design is motivated by preliminary studies with visually impaired people, and it is small-scale and mobile, which enables a more manageable operation with little setup.
